grewer, for the less cotton the more wool, must be the law. From the New York Tribans!

Just now the Turks seem a little less inclined to declare war than they were last week, and the Greeks a little more debermined to bring on war. All posts and the grand visier are making every effort to turn the sulfan from his purpose, and although England and France do not agree in reference to Greece, they do not agree in reference to Greece, they were firecee and Tarkey. It is possible yet that these influences may prevent ween Greece and Turkey. It is possible yet that these influences may prevent war, but I fear that things have already gone too far. The change in the Greek ministry, which, by the way, will prevent Bozzaris from going to the United States, as he is now minister of war, Is a change in favor of war. The very first step of the new ministry was to send for the revolutionaty committee, called the cummittee of public safety, and inquire what the government could do to help them on.

The business will the losses be more severe who had made Snote terday saw a farmer who had made Snote in four years from a flock of a few hundred, and af the same time I find numbers who have lost as much in as many years, because they have not given their flocks the needed care. The scal, and the screw worm are the great enemies of the wood-grower in this country, and they must be fought with a watchful and tireless energy, or they will soon be the victors.

The Cretan rebellion is as active as the committee of the Turks and Expression of the Turks and Expression of the Turks weaker lian three sources say that the rebellion is stronger and other Turks weaker lian three months ago. In These like the theorem of the terms of the theorem of the transmittee o death to every foreign soldier found in Criste.

The distress of the Turkish government for want of money is very great. The expenses of the Cristan was have not only eaten up everything which there was in the treasury, but everything which the Turks can borrow. The January interest on the national debt has been paid, but nothing else is paid, and the distress among the employees of the porte, and through them among the wealth merchants, is heartrending. Womens and children in growds surround the treasury department, and the minister of finance does not dare to show himself lest he should be stoned. No one is paid who by any possibility ister of finance does not dare to show himself lest he should be stoned. No one is paid who by any possibility can be avoided or compelled to wait. If Turkey does not declare war it will be because she cannot raise the money to carry it on. In connection with this distress of the government, the people throughout the country are suffering everything. Extra taxes are forced from the ultra already starving populations, and through Asia Minor there are districts where there is literal famine. There are such places almost within sight of Constantinople. About Nicomedia, for example, I have known of cases there where men have municipal their own children that they might not see them starve.
